SEPTEMBER 2017

THE ONLY THING MORE POWERFUL
THAN A TEEN TITAN? A LIBRARY CARD!

September is National Library Card Sign-Up

Public libraries play an important role in their communities. The library isn't just a place to check out the latest bestseller, but rather a place that meets a variety of needs in the community. Be sure to use your library card often! It is the most important card in your wallet!

- While you're at the library in September be sure to make sure your card is up-to-date. Does the library have a correct phone number, address, and email for you? Ask at the Circulation Desk when you check out to make sure we have your valid contact information. The library will send you late notices and hold notifications via email or text message if you opt into the program.
- Children who obtain a library card during the month of September will receive a coupon for a small prize in the Children's Library on the second floor.

Libraries:

Build Community

Libraries are community hubs. In addition to connecting people to information, libraries connect people to people. They are safe havens for kids when school is not in session, offering after school homework help, games and book clubs. Libraries offer computer classes, enabling older adults stay engaged in a digital world. Bookmobiles and community outreach programs keep those living in remote areas or those who are housebound connected to the larger community.

Provide Access

Libraries level the playing field. As great democratic institutions, serving people of every age, income level, location, ethnicity, or physical ability, and providing the full range of information resources needed to live, learn, govern, and work.

Promote Literacy

Libraries are committed to helping children and adults develop the skills they need to survive and thrive in a global information society: the ability to read and use computers.

Protect Your Rights

Libraries are advocates for your right to read and your right to reader privacy.

Innovate

Libraries are places for community engagement, a platform for great minds to come together. The way people are using our libraries is changing as fast as technology is changing society. Increasingly, libraries are becoming a place for creation and collaboration.

What's your favorite book? Chances are good that someone has tried to ban it. Every year, there are hundreds of attempts to remove books from schools and libraries. Celebrate YOUR freedom to read and right to choose your book during Banned Books Week, September 25 –October 1.

By focusing on efforts across the country to remove or restrict access to books, Banned Books Week draws national attention to the harms of censorship. The books featured during Banned Books Week have all been targeted with removal or restrictions in libraries and schools. While books have been and continue to be banned, part of the Banned Books Week celebration is the fact that, in a majority of cases, the books have remained available. This happens only thanks to the efforts of librarians, teachers, students, and community members who stand up and speak out for the freedom to read. Banned Books Week is an annual event celebrating the freedom to read; it highlights the value of free and open access to information. Banned Books Week brings together the entire book community – librarians, booksellers, publishers, journalists, teachers, and readers of all types – in shared support of the freedom to seek and to express ideas, even those some consider unorthodox or unpopular. For more information about banned books, visit <http://www.ala.org/bbooks/about>.

Be sure to look for the special banned book display in the library lobby during Banned Books Week, and check out a banned book today at the Crown Point Community Library!

September is Adult Education Month

Do you know someone who would like to earn their High School Equivalency (HSE) diploma (formerly known as the GED)? The Crown Point Community Library hosts the Crown Point Adult Learning Center in the James C. Conlon Community Literacy Center at the Crown Point location. The Adult Learning Center works with the Department of Workforce Development to provide educational services for those wanting to complete their High School education regardless of age. They also facilitate training for individuals looking for employment. The Adult Learning Center also provides English language instruction for those learning English as a second language. The Center is seeking tutor volunteers to assist students in achieving their education goals. No need for a teaching degree, only a desire to help others with reading, language, and math skills. Orientation provided - flexible schedules. You can contact the Adult Learning Center by calling 219-314-9904 or emailing crownpointalc@cwicorp.com for more information.

Summer Reading Art Display

How to register for a program offered at the library

Registration can be done a variety of ways.

- Online: Visit the library's web-page, www.crownpointlibrary.org, and click on the tab labeled "EVENTS". Once you are on the EVENTS page, click on the green calendar of events box on the right margin. Once you reach the calendar, locate the date of the program you'd like to attend, and click on it. Click on the button, "Register Now" and enter your information. You may select to have a reminder email sent to you prior to the event.

- Crown Point programs: For adult programs call the CP Reference Desk at 306-4593 or visit the Reference Desk on the 2nd floor and they can register you for any class(s) you would like to attend.

For children's programs call the CP Children's Library at 306-8068 or visit the Children's Service Desk on the 2nd floor and they can register you for any class(s) you would like to attend.

- Winfield Library programs: Call 662-4039 or visit the Circulation Desk at Winfield Branch Library to register for programs for all ages.

*Important: If an event is full, please place yourself on the waiting list when available. Sometimes the library can meet demand with an additional class or may have a cancellation. Other times the library may plan a future event and use the waitlist to alert people of the new event. Be thoughtful of others and cancel your registration if you realize you are unable to come to class.
